HEARD IN HOTEL CORRIDORS.

May Be On the Commission.

Col. Willard Young, of New York, a former officer in the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, is a guest at the Raleigh. Colonel Young is an applicant for membership on the Panama Canal Commission and has the support of the Western States Senators. Colonel Young called upon the President this morning, accompanied by Senators Kearns and Smoot of Utah, from which State Colonel Young came. The colonel is the only candidate for a place on the commission from the Rocky Mountain section, and there is every reason to assure his friends he will be successful. Senator Smoot and the colonel were seated in the lobby of the Raleigh this morning, when the colonel was asked by a reporter for The Times as to his chances. He said: "The whole matter now rests in the hands of the President. I feel that I have experience sufficient to assume the duties of a member, with credit not only to myself, but to the many friends who have endorsed me. For more than twenty years I was in the Engineer Corps of the army, and in that time was connected with many important engineering undertakings. I shall certainly appreciate the honor."

Not in Touch With Politics.

"I am taking no interest in politics at this time," said the Hon. John St. Clair, of Fayette county, West Virginia, this morning to a Times reporter in the corridor of the New Willard. "I have been in New York for the past two weeks undergoing treatment for a severe throat trouble with which I am suffering. Two days ago I received a dispatch to return at once to my home on important legal matters. When I arrived in Washington I received another message informing me my return was not necessary at this time, and I am simply resting here a day or so before going back to New York to continue my treatment. I have paid so little attention to politics this year, I feel rather out of touch. Of course, you know the Democrats have but little chance any more in West Virginia, and only succeed in obtaining office now and then when there is dissatisfaction in the Republican ranks." Mr. St. Clair is a warm personal friend of William Jennings Bryan, and in both of Bryan's campaigns, addressed the same audiences, with that distinguished candidate while touring the State of West Virginia.

Americans Prefer Luxury in Travel.

Samuel Moody, of Pittsburgh, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, with jurisdiction over a greater part of that system, is a guest at the Riggs House. Mr. Moody has been connected with the Pennsylvania roads for a number of years, and is one of its veteran officers. To a reporter for The Times, he said last night, "The Pennsylvania Railroad has experienced a wonderful growth within the past five years."

WOMAN'S NATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETS.

A business meeting of the Woman's National Press Association was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood, past president of the association. Bessie Agnes Dwyer, of the Library of Congress, and Miss Mary Boole Hinton were elected to active membership. The association placed itself on record as heartily endorsing the movement to prevent expectation in public places in Washington. On motion of Dr. Alice Burritt, a resolution was passed congratulating Mrs. J. G. Lemmon, of Oakland, Cal., on her success in securing the adoption of the California poppy as the State flower of California.

NAME OF ROOSEVELT GRACES SIXTEEN POSTOFFICES.

Marie M. Simmons has been named postmistress at Roosevelt, Custer County, S. D., a recently established post office. This is the sixteenth office named after the President. Other offices bearing his name are located in the following States: Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin. Oklahoma also has a post office named after President Roosevelt.

GREAT ISSUE OF PATENTS.

Six hundred and seven patents were issued during the week ended Thursday. Not a dozen times in the past twenty years has the weekly issue exceeded 600, and the indications are that the business will increase greatly.

Thornton, Mrs. John J. Wyson, Mrs. Robert Fulton Cutting, Mrs. John Hobart Warren, Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. Whitney Warren, and Miss Therese Iselein were among those in the parterre boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont will leave today for a week's visit in Washington, D. C.

In aid of the charity annex of the Loomis Sanitarium for Consumptives, an unusually interesting entertainment was given yesterday afternoon in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. It was also the tenth anniversary of the opening of the hotel, and to celebrate this event the ballroom was donated to charity for the day. All the artists contributed their services, and as there was a large audience, quite a sum was realized.

Miss Harriette Cady gave a reception yesterday afternoon at her home, 252 West Forty-second Street, for Mrs. Charles F. Green, of Paris. Among those invited were Mrs. Jacob Berry, Mrs. S. Montgomery Roosevelt, John Notman, Mrs. Mason Bey, Alden Freeman, Miss Durand-Ruel, Mrs. H. Durant Cheever, Mrs. Edward Mitchell, Dr. Charles J. Harrison, and Raymond

New branches are being extended in every direction and business seems to spring up from every little town through which the line passes. This year, the management is expending millions of dollars in improvements. Of course, I am more familiar with the passenger business, and am pleased with the large amount of business being done. I notice the increased desire of the American people to travel with every luxury and the patrons of the fast train increase in number every day. Pittsburgh, I think, furnishes more travelers than any city of its size in the country, and every year sends a large contingent abroad. That is due to the great number of wealthy persons who live there. Pittsburgh, by the way, is the garden spot of the world, so far as business is concerned."

Canadian Banker Visits Capital.

Lieutenant Colonel Ray, of Port Arthur, Canada, is registered at the New Willard for a few days while viewing Washington. Colonel Ray is a banker and deeply interested in the development of Canadian interests. He is on his way to Cuba for an inspection tour of the island, and may close some financial deals before returning home. To a reporter for The Times he said this morning: "Canada has developed wonderfully within the past ten years. When the Canadian Pacific Railroad was projected and constructed many people said it would not produce sufficient money to buy 'axle grease.' They were mistaken, for the road has more business than it can handle. Consequently, three other trans-continental railroads are being projected through Canada and fourteen hundred miles of the Canadian Northern has been built from Port Arthur to the Pacific Coast. The Trans-Canadian, Grand Trunk, and Canadian Northern may be merged into one system and one line built across the country from ocean to ocean. I think that two lines will be built within the next few years. If they are, there will be no trouble in financing them. Canada has plenty of money and more is being made every year. Hustlers from the United States have aided in the development of our dominion." Colonel Ray is president of two banks, private institutions, and both of which are doing a large amount of business. The institutions are located at Port Arthur and Port William, two important shipping points of the great northwest.

Mrs. Talmage Returns Home.

Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmage, of this city, widow of the late eminent divine, who has been in Florida for the past six weeks, arrived in Washington last night and obtained temporary quarters at the New Willard. She was accompanied by Miss Collier. Mrs. Talmage was much pleased to get back home, and states her health is much improved by her trip South.

DR. DANIEL C. WESTON DIES AT GREAT OLD AGE.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel C. Weston, an Episcopal minister, died yesterday at his home, 2017 O Street northwest, of senile debility and exhaustion, aged eighty-nine years. The funeral will be held at the Church of Epiphany tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, and the body will be taken to New York for interment.

Dr. Weston was born in Augusta, Me., February 24, 1815, and was the son of the Hon. Nathan Weston, chief justice of Maine for many years. He was also an uncle of Chief Justice Fuller, of the United States Supreme Court. Dr. Weston was a graduate of Bowdoin College, Me. He practiced law for several years before becoming a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Former Governor G. W. Atkinson, of West Virginia, now United States attorney for the southern district of that State, has presented to the President the report of the grand jury investigating the fight between miners and deputy marshals at Standiford City, Raleigh county, in that State, on February 25, when five persons were killed and seven injured. Judge H. F. Koller, of the same district, presided at the court, and at his request Mr. Atkinson came to Washington to present the report in person to the Department of Justice and to the President.

FINE CONCERT BY THE GEORGETOWN ORCHESTRA

Heard to Splendid Advantage in Three Notable Selections.

The Georgetown Orchestra, for many years the foremost permanent musical organization in the District of Columbia, performed at the Columbia Theater yesterday the program of its fifty-fifth concert. The entertainment was in one sense a departure, as the orchestra played in the afternoon; and this fact interfered somewhat with the complete success of the undertaking by preventing the attendance of many business men who have long given it loyal support. Otherwise, however, the concert was distinctly noteworthy.

Three orchestral offerings were included in the program: The overture to von Weber's "Der Freischütz," Robert Volkmann's Symphony in D minor, op. 44, Edward German's "Gypsy Suite." The first of these is as familiar as the overture from "William Tell," and is perhaps the more popular on that account. The second has been played in Washington several times by orchestras of much greater pretensions than the Georgetown Orchestra. The third was new to most of the audience.

All three were excellently performed. The Von Weber number has rarely been heard to such advantage. Strings, reeds and horns united in its several movements with marked harmony and much force. The symphony was also done excellently, especially in its second movement. As for the "Gypsy Suite," the performance ranked with the best orchestral performances heard here this season. The attack was confident and strong. The movements were sustained admirably. The harmony was most pleasing, especially in the second number, a love duet. In the nuances, light and shade and crescendo passages the orchestra excelled. This number was manifestly the orchestra's triumph.

In viewing such results as these it is well to note the slender means by which they are produced. The Georgetown orchestra is an organization of amateurs. Its members are for the most part not thoroughly trained. Its rehearsals are less frequent and the attendance less regular than with orchestras of professional musicians. Yet these difficulties have in this instance all been overcome and a plane of musical excellence reached almost as high as that of any orchestra which is heard in Washington. This achievement is surely a fine tribute to the energy and skill of Conductor Kaspar and the earnest support of his associates. The Georgetown orchestra has long been a credit to the community from which it takes its name.

After yesterday's concert it takes rank nationally with the best organizations of the National Capital has produced.

The soloist of yesterday was Mrs. H. Clay Browning, a local soprano. Her numbers were the recitative and aria from Gounod's "La Reine de Saba," Liszt's "Cupid and the Rose," and "The Little Thief," by Leo Stern. As an encore she sang Liszt's "If No One Ever Marries Me." Her singing was of a sustained high grade, her personality proved to be decidedly pleasing, and her reception was warm, all of which facts suggest anew the perennial query. Why must the soloists for nearly all our local concerts be imported?

Herbert H. D. Peirce, Third Assistant Secretary of State, has instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court of the District to enforce his claim for services rendered the Eagle Fishing Company, of California, in the presentation of its claim to the arbitrator at The Hague in 1902.

The litigation is in the form of injunction proceedings, in which the Eagle Fishing Company, Ellis H. Roberts, Treasurer of the United States; Charles L. Patton, and James H. Embrey, are named as defendants. The court is asked to restrain Treasurer Roberts from paying to the other defendants certain moneys in the United States Treasury to their credit, until Mr. Peirce's claim for services has been settled. The petition was presented to Justice Gould, who issued a temporary order restraining the distribution of the fund until further order of the court.

The claim of the Eagle Fishing Company is against the Russian Government, and is the outcome of the Bering Sea fishery troubles. It is said that on July 15, 1892, the Russian cruiser Zablack captured the C. H. White, a vessel owned by the Eagle Fishing Company. The latter placed its claim for $2,169.95 in the hands of Charles L. Patton for collection. He in turn assigned part of his commission to James H. Embrey, and in March, 1900, Mr. Peirce was engaged to appear before the arbitrator at The Hague in behalf of the Eagle Fishing Company. In March, 1902, the arbitrator announced his decision in favor of the Eagle Fishing Company for the amount claimed on the grounds that the seizure of the C. H. White was illegal. It is said that Messrs. Embrey and Patton cannot agree as to the amounts of their claims, and that Mr. Peirce's claim, as stated, is $12,502.15.

DR. RADCLIFFE LECTURES AT FAIRMOUNT SEMINARY.

Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, last night delivered a lecture before the girls of the Fairmount Seminary and a few of their friends. The address discussed the quality of "Emphasis in Affairs of Life." Dr. Radcliffe showed how wrong emphasis or lack of emphasis, just as in elocution, can put a false interpretation on the real activities of life. He advised the girl students to be careful not to put themselves in false positions by indifference to the things in life worth while, nor by too much enthusiasm over minor matters. The lecture was listened to with great interest, and Dr. Radcliffe was heartily applauded.
